

Jim Roach, M.D.
Biography

Jim Roach, M.D. brings extensive product development and commercialization experience to Momenta as Chief Medical Officer. Prior to joining Momenta, Dr. Roach was the Senior Vice President of Medical Affairs at Sepracor. He has also held senior clinical research and/or medical affairs positions at Millennium Pharmaceuticals, LeukoSite, Medical and Technical Research Associates, and Astra USA.

Dr. Roach is Board Certified in Internal Medicine, Pulmonary Disease, and Critical Care Medicine. He has been affiliated with the Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine Division of Brigham and Women's Hospital since 1993 and is an Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School. Dr. Roach is also a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and the American College of Chest Physicians.

He received his BA majoring in Biology and Philosophy from the College of the Holy Cross, and his MD from Georgetown University School of Medicine.