

Dick Green is co-founder and managing director of Granite State Angels, a regional investment group based in Hanover, New Hampshire. Dick is Chairman of the Board of Directors of Jetboil, Inc., a New Hampshire company producing innovative products for the outdoor recreation market. Dick is also a director of SB Electronics, a Vermont company producing electronic components for high-energy pulse applications. Dick is a director of Dategrity Corporation., a Seattle-based producer of security systems for privacy protection, and is co-founder of Dategrity's VoteHere division, which specializes in cryptographic systems for electronic and online voting. He served as chairman of VoteHere from 1998-2001. Dick is a co-founder of the Grafton County Economic Development Council, and was President from 1999-2004. Dick is a co-founder of the Dartmouth Regional Technology Center business incubator. Dick has served as a member of the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center assembly of overseers since 1997.

Dick obtained his BA from Dartmouth College where he was awarded the John G. Kemeny Prize in Computing in 1976.